Controlling Devices Over the Internet > Introduction to Javascript

Why are we not teaching Javascript in detail?

With the topics we cover in this lecture on Javascript, you will be all set and ready to build your own IoT projects. You will also get a good idea about what Javascript is and get started with it.

However, teaching Javascript itself is a full fledged training course and hence it is out of bounds of this IoT training to cover it all. The focus of this training is on Internet of Things and not on a particular language so we shall cover only what is required to build IoT projects and even a bit of machine learning in the coming sections.

At the end of this topic on Javascript, I will share a resource with you which you can refer to for learning more on Javascript. Now let's get started with learning Javascript.
